

SO YOU WANT TO BE A PROFESSOR WORKSHOPS

Washington State needs more nurse educators!

Can you envision yourself teaching nursing students at a community college, university, or as a clinical instructor in a health care facility? Jumpstart your journey with this unique workshop!

The WCN Diversity Advisory Committee is committed to creating a strong and diverse nurse faculty workforce. So You Want to be a Professor is a FREE half-day Zoom workshop that introduces participants to nursing education as a career and the different and surprising paths nurse educators can take.

Via Zoom | Tuesday, September 1, 2020 | 9 am-1 pm

Registration closes August 24, 2020. Space is limited so register early!

Register here: www.surveymonkey.com/r/HM3YKRL

Who should register? Practicing nurses and nursing students from underrepresented communities interested in pursuing the nurse educator path.

This workshop will cover:

- The role of a nurse educator and how to prepare for a career in the academic settings of community and technical colleges, private universities, and public/research universities.
- The basics on applying to schools of nursing, attaining tenure, and other aspects of navigating a career in academia.
- The high demand areas in nursing education such as psych/mental, integrated, and rural health nursing.

Meet the Workshop Presenters:

Butch de Castro, PhD, MSN/MPH, RN, FAAN
Associate Dean for Diversity, Equity & Inclusion
University of Washington School of Nursing

KaraLynn LaValley, PhD, MN, RN
Associate Dean of Nursing
Green River College

Antwinett O. Lee, EdD, MSN-CNS, RN
Interim Dean School of Health Sciences
Seattle Pacific University

Questions? Please email Frank Kohel at info@wcnursing.org
To learn more visit: www.wcnursing.org

This workshop is made possible by a grant from Premera Blue Cross.